

Alarison E. Myers, Civil War Pensioner

Alarison Elfonsie Myers (5/9/1825—7/28/1906) was the oldest child of William Myers and Lillis Tharpe. About 1847, Alarison married Elizabeth Mullis. Over the next twenty years, they would have at least nine children. The Myers family had lived in the northern part of Iredell Co until the 1850s when they moved to the Rock Creek area of Wilkes Co. This family is well documented in the Wilkes Heritage Book, Volume 1.

On 7/28/1862, Alarison and brothers Zedic Stanly, Augustus William, and Noah Franklin enlisted in the Confederate Army in Guilford Co. After returning from his service in the war, he was ordained as a Baptist minister on 10/5/1864 and served with several churches in Wilkes Co over the next 30 years. He was buried at Rock Creek Baptist Church.

Last year I found several Civil War pension requests on file at the State Archives in Raleigh. As early as 1889, the government passed laws granting a pension to Civil War veterans or their widows. In 1901 the law was loosened so that more people could take advantage of the benefit. In subsequent years, as potential recipients became older, the restrictions were loosened further. While some requests provide very little information about the applicant, others provide details that could be found no where else. One interesting application is that of A. E. Myers, particularly in the colorful reports from the physicians.

On 6/25/1901, A. E. Myers submitted his request for a pension as shown on the next three pages. The first page is a letter from a physician that accompanied his request. The more documentation an applicant provided, the better his chance of receiving a pension. The next two pages are of his actual application. He gives his age as 76, living in the neighborhood of Round Mountain Post Office. He enlisted in Co D, 5th NC Regiment in July 1862. His pension was approved.
